SATURDAY, August 30-6 P. M. en 'Change to-day cotton was quiet, and exhibited no material change in prices. The receipts at the different ports foot up 1,208 bales. Flour was in fair demand and steady. Wheat was less active. but remained firm. Corn was in good demand at tuil prices.

THE BANK STATEMENT. The statement of the banks this week accorded with the general expectation. It was unfavorable. It showed a still further reduction upon that of the last and preceding weeks. It presents to us a deexcess over the legal reserve of but $5,906,450. At the rate at which depletion has been going on we shall soon reach the minimum. There has been a decrease in specie of $2,049,000 and in legal tenders of $803,100, making a total of $2,852,100. Last week the amount held above the legal reserve was $6,950,175. THE STOCK MARKET.

Business to-day was exceedingly limited, the total transactions being represented by 53,000 shares. Even Pacific Mail, which has so long held a leading place at the board, failed to elicit interest, and by its indifference left the rest of the list to follow their natural course. Western Union, therefore, stepped to the front and largely occupied at tention, selling at 91% a 91%, and gradually weakening, as is supposed, in consequence of the un-pleasant bank statement to 91%. Pacific Mail opened at 44%, sold up to 44% and down to 43%. Owing to the absence of any more "bull points," lower prices are intimated in this stock. Curious statements direct from headquarters are even now "on the wing." They cannot be published without provoking criti-cism. They reiterate lacts, however, that have been frequently published. It remains for time to demonstrate their truth. Eric sold at 60 a 59% a 60, the decline being in sympathy with London quotations, which were shot up by incorrect reports from this side as to the nature of the dividends. In other words, the English market was disappointed, yet a confident feeling prevails here that the owners of the common stock will be kindly remembered in the payment of dividends, even though the company are forced to negotiate funds for the purpose. Lake Shore lost ½ per cent. Panama rose from 116 to 116½. Union Pacific was steady at 26% a 26%. New York Central varied only % per cent. Northwest closed at 64%, Rock Island at 108%, Ohlo and Mississippi at 39 and C., C. and I. C. at 31% a 30. The rest of the market underwent immaterial changes.

FORGED BONDS. Considerable comment was produced on the street by a caution, published telegraphically from the President of the Stock Exchange, to look out for torged New York Central railroad bonds, due in 1876. Many rumors prevailed as to the extent of the forgeries and the amount of the lorged paper held as collateral both by banks and individuals. The amount issued of this class of bonds is about $3,000.000, but most of them have been converted into stock, and it is estimated that only $195,000 remain outstanding. All the police incidents and other facts connected with the discovery of the fraud will be found in another column. HIGHEST AND LOWEST.

FEDERAL OFFICE AFFAIRS.

troversy Between the Customs Officers and the Postmaster-The Sanctity of the Mails Must Be Preserved-Payment of Pensions-Civil Service Affairs.

A most interesting epoch in the existence of government officials is the end of each month, at which time salaries are paid, and, in many cases, the hard earned stipend is taken by the one to whom it is due in order to merely pay it over to the sharks who have taken advantage of the employe's necessities during the interim of the month by advancing money at the nominal interest of ten per cent, or 120 per cent per annum, to relieve his pressing need.

The last day of September coming on Sunday the employes of the several government offices re ceived their salary yesterday. The BUSINESS AT THE CUSTOM HOUSE during the past month was an improvement over that of July; yet it was by no means what it ought to have been at this season of the year.

A MOST IMPORTANT CONTROVERSY, as well as highly interesting to merchants and others, has been carried on during the past week between the Custom House people and Postmaster James. It was claimed by the former that when ever any letters are received at the Post Office susever any letters are received at the Post Office suspected of containing valuables subject to duty the same must be sent to the Customs Department, to be opened then and there and appraised for tariff dues. Mr. James claimed that must be respected; and no one, except the parties to whom letters were addressed, had a right to break the seal. The casus bell was carried to Washington; and the stand taken by Postmaster James was not only approved by Postmaster James was not only approved by Postmaster General Creswell, but the Secretary of the Treasury instructed General Arthur to detail a customs officer to the Post Office, with Mr. James' concurrence, before whom all such letters, as cited above, shall be opened and disposed of. Mr. James is strengthened in the action taken on this subject by the foliowing

rost oppice regulation, which is ample in its provisions on every point involved in this controversy:—

Section & When letters or packages from a foreign country are received at any post-office and the postmaster has reason to believe that such letters or packages contain articles subject to duty, he shall immediately notify the customs officer of the district in which his office is located of the receipt of such letters or packages and the names of the persons to whom the same are addressed. The letters or packages must be retained a reasonable time, for the purpose of allowing the customs officer to examine them. Packages, when seized by an officer of the customs, will be opened by such officer in the presence of the Postmaster and of the parties addressed, but letters registered or ordinary can only be opened by the parties addressed, who should be notified by the customs officer to appear at the Post Office and open the same. Postmasters are expected to extend to custom house officers all proper inclities to protect the customs revenue from trands practised through the mails.

ome and or custom house officers all proper facilities to protect the customs revenue from trands practised through the mails.

FILTHY CONDITION OF THE POST OPPICE.

Notwithstanding the constant tinkering and temporary repairs to the old church the Post Office building is in a horrid state. In order to gain some ventilation huge windsalis were applied from the roof, but whenever it rains the floor of the office is almost swamped, and the water, instead of running of, settles under the floor and becomes stagnant. The old tower on Liberty street was removed a short time, andim its cavity a new room fitted up, besides which a floor was rented on Liberty street and added to the postal department; yet the accommodations are still very limited. Mr. A. B. I Mullet, Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department, was at the Post Office yesterday and promised that he would exert all his power to have the lower part of the new building ready for the Postmaster by New Year's. The increasing business in mail matters makes it desirable that increased facilities be speculiy extended to the New York Post Office.

Mr. James received a netification yesterday that the Post Office at Annandale, N. J., had been robbed on Friday night of postage stamps to the value of $150. A high official of the government reports that Postmaster James desires to contradict the report published recently in regard to the arrest of Alfred McTyke for robbing the mails. It was stated that the accused was a clerk in the Post Office, whereas he was only a driver in the employ of the New York Transfer Company, and in this way connected with the Post Office. McPyke was suspected for some time past by Shecki Armit.

Sharrets, and the man was finally caught prifering letters at station E, while waiting for the mails, and apprehended

To soldiers of the late war and their widows is made quarterly. The third quarter for 1873 will be paid next Thursday and the days following by Mr. S. B. Dutcher, the New York Pension Agent. At the same time the blemmal examination of invalids by the surgeons will be held. Every pensioner whose certificate does not in express terms exempt therefrom, or whose disability is not of a permanent character, such as a loss of a limb, is subject to the examination. This, however, only applies to soldiers of the late war; those of 1812 are exempt on account of their being pensioned as survivors and not as invalids, 124,800; widows of 1812, 5,505; invalids or 1812, 21,003. Upwards of 100,000 applications for pension are pending and undetermined at Washington, of which 3,000 refer to the war of 1812, 21,003. #### THE FENIANS IN COUNCIL.

The Convention Adjourns Sine Die-Reports from Ireland-The Russian Marriage-Nationalists Resting Upon Their

The Fenian Convention adjourned sine die yesterday morning, at five o'clock, after a session of five days and nights. The delegates showed at least a great deal of self-abnegation, for, though they came from distant points tired and worn out, they were prompt to answer the roll call at each session. Most of the gentlemen who attended ap peared to be men who had seen service in "the tented field," and their genuine feelings of devotion to their mother land could not be questioned. The boasted free institutions of England were to the minds of some of the delegates who recently arrived from Ireland a hideous mockery. They asseverated that what with patrolling the roads and byways in the country, at all hours of the day and night, by highlanders and the royal constabulary, Poland was never more under the oppresser's heel than Ireland is to-day under Mr. Gladstone's government,

The reports received from the Old Country dis-pelled the impression that the masses of the Irish eople were content to remain submissive or content or were in any sense changed in their deeply cherished wish to be rid of the English oppressor. The fear of the Fenian Brotherhood and the variou wrongs heaped on the unfortunate people of Ireland among others by rapacious absentee landlords deriv-ing incomes spent abroad, from estates that have been wrested from their rightful owners constibeen wrested from their rightful owners consti-tuted, as a delegate remarked, a skeleton in the closet for England and gages for battle always present for Ireland against her merciless ruler. THE RUSSIAN MARRIAGE.

A reporter of the HERALD endeavored to obtain

A reporter of the Herald endeavored to obtain some definite information concerning the proceedings of the Convention. All that could be reliably ascertained was that constant and regular communication was kept up with the circles in England, Ireland and Scotiand, and that there was, instead of falling off in zeal or devotion, increased manifestations in these regards. The Russian marriage was, according to one communication, a sop to the besotted English groundlings, but Ireland, and the wrongs under which she groans, was England's weakness. A thousand alliances of the kind amount to nothing in comparison with the resolve of Ireland to get even with her old time foe. The Duke of Edinburgh, a penurious, mean fellow, who sold a span of horses presented to him in Melbourne before leaving the Australian colonies and put the money in his pocket, was referred to in a despatch from Dundaik. The circles there were resting on their arms and ready to march

NOT A PUNERAL.

One gentleman in attendance regretted very much that Mr. Gladstone did not ask for £100,000 a year for, as he stated, the invalid Princeling. He pitted from the bottom of his heart the Russian Emperor's poor daugnter. When the English found the expense of maintaining the farce of a monarchy with parsimonious representatives they would soon give it up. It was not entirely an Irish inneral. The delegates had a good deal to say concerning the matter of sending arms to Ireland. Attacks on militab abstracks they condemned, for such could only result in bringing sorrow and weeping to many a household. The Convention repeated, before closing, that it was only when England was fighting for life that Irish nationalists should resort to arms, if justice could not be otherwise acquired, to obtain their inahenable rights—rights, as the delegates stated, they would far sooner die to obtain than have their countrymen remain deprived of in their native land.
